

to whom this may concern; it saddens me to see that my tax dollars are being waisted on the issue regarding satellite radio. You should not impose restrictions on satellite radio, instead you should let the market fluctate and let consumers choose. As far as the issue with local markets, have you even considered that some users might need the local traffic coverage while driving to a city that is 100's of miles a way. when I go home to atlanta I would liek to know what traffic is like before I get there so that i may take another route before it is too late. on my way up I 16 no fm or am station is strong enough to pick up the signal until it is too late. please support satellite radio and tell the am/fm radio owners to adjust to the market.
